Let's Start!

I need some old-fashioned remedies.

Learning Outcome

Exchange advice and suggestions in communicative situations.

Ask your partner:

- Do you believe in natural remedies for pain? Why or why not?
- Have you ever tried any alternative therapies?
- What have you been doing recently?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about injuries, accidents and health care.
- I can ask someone a favor.
- I can talk about recent actions and routines.

Let's Explore!

Vanessa calls her grandmother. What does she suggest Vanessa give a shot?

* To "give something a shot" means to try to do something.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Grandma: Hello?

Vanessa: Hi, Grandma. How are you?

Grandma: Vanessa! How lovely to hear your voice. It's been a while since we last talked. Could you please speak up a little? It's hard to hear you.

Vanessa: Is this better?

Grandma: Yes. You don't sound too good. Are you okay?

Vanessa: Actually, I'm laid up in bed with a sore foot and swollen thumb! I injured myself bowling today.

Grandma: Oh, dear!

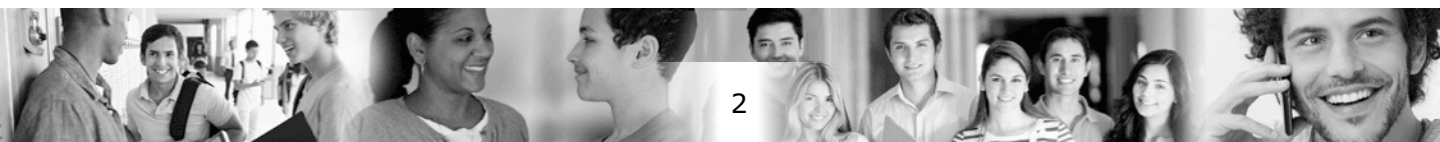

Vanessa: I was wondering if you could give me some ideas to help with the pain and inflammation. I haven't felt this physically battered in a while. I need some old-fashioned remedies.

Grandma: I've actually been going to seminars on homeopathic treatments recently. I've met some wonderful people who have given me many ideas for alternative therapies. It's really helped my arthritis. If I were you, I'd take a tablespoon of turmeric, add it to boiling water, let it cool and take half a teaspoon of the paste with milk.

Vanessa: I've been suffering for hours now. I'll definitely give that a shot. Thanks Grandma.

Grandma: You're welcome, my dear. Would it be okay if I called you tomorrow to check in?

Vanessa: Of course!

Let's Practice!

What have you been doing recently*?

*You use "recently" to talk about a period of time in the recent past.

Instructions: Organize the mystery sentences. Read the sentences aloud. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

1. It's / . / since / a / while / we / been / talked

2. haven't / while / this / felt / physically / in / . / I / a / battered

3. I've / to / . / seminars / going / been

4. wonderful / some / I've / . / people / met

5. been / now / suffering / for / . / I've / hours

Let's Practice!

You don't sound too good.

Instructions: Proofread the sentence. Cross out the wrong words. Write the sentences correctly.

1. I'm laid up in bed with a pain foot and swollen thumb!

2. I injury myself bowling today.

3. Here are some ideas to help with the pain and flame.

4. I've been to seminars on homeopathy treatments.

5. People have given me many ideas for alternate therapies.

6. I'd take a tablespoon of two , add it to boiling water and let it cool.

Learning Points

Present Perfect Continuous vs Present Perfect

You use the Present Perfect tense to talk about a past action or an action that began in the past that is connected to the present in some way.

You use Present Perfect Continuous tense to describe:

- a single activity that lasts a long time, and
- an action that is repeated over a long period of time.

These continue up to the present.

You can use the Present Perfect tense to talk about experience. When you use the Present Perfect tense, you think about the past and present together. There is some connection between what happened in the past and now.

For example:

I have learned English = I learned English in the past and now I can speak English.

He has bought a painting = He bought the painting in the past and now he has a painting.

You can use the Present Perfect Continuous tense when a long activity has just stopped.

To emphasize the action, use the continuous form.

- We've been working really hard for a couple of months.
- She's been having a hard time.

To emphasize the result of the action, use the simple form.

- I've made fifteen phone calls this morning.
- He's written a very good report.

Subject	has/have	been	verb+ing
She	has	been	talking on the phone for an hour.
They	have	been	working there since 2010.

- You use FOR to talk about how long an action has been happening (a week, 2 days, five hours, six years etc.).
- You use SINCE to talk about when the action started (2010, Monday, she was a child)

Examples:

- I've been training with a personal trainer for two weeks.
- I haven't had any free time since I started there.

Learning Points

Asking for Favors

There are different ways to ask for favors. Favors are things we would like other people to do for us. It is best to be as polite as possible when asking for favors.

You can use modals to ask for favors.

For example:

Could/Would you + verb, please?

Could you speak up a little, please?

You can also use an if-clause.

For example:

I was wondering if you could give me some ideas to help with the pain.

Would it be okay if I called tomorrow?

Examples:

- Could you please recommend some alternative therapies?
- Would it be okay if I used this?
- I was wondering if you could give me some ideas.
