Let's Start!

I'd get that checked out if I were you.

Learning Outcome

Exchange advice and suggestions in communicative situations.

Ask your partner:

- If you injured your back, what would you do?
- What advice would you have for someone who injured their back?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about injuries, accidents and health care.
- I can give advice.
- I can talk about hypothetical situations.

Let's Explore!

Vanessa and Sally are quite the pair*. What happened to Sally?

* If you and another person are "quite the pair", you are well matched.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Sally: Hooray! A strike!
Vanessa: Well done, Sal! If I were you, I would be jumping up and down!
Sally: OK! I will! ... Ouch, my back!
Vanessa: What happened?
Sally: I threw out my back!
Vanessa: Oooh You'd better sit down!
Sally: I think I may have pulled a muscle ...
Vanessa: I'd get that checked out if I were you. It could be serious. My Aunt Nelly threw her back out and was laid up for weeks.
Sally: For weeks! Maybe I ought to go home and lie down.
Vanessa: Me, too. Wow, we are quite the pair ...
Sally: This reminds me of our trip to the Grand Canyon. We shouldn't try any more sports together. Someone always gets injured.
Vanessa: No kidding! OK, we'd better get moving. We ought to go home and relax.
Sally: If ... If we went home, we'd need to have some movies to watch while we heal.
Vanessa: Good idea! I think I have a few we could watch.
Sally: Great, let's get going. Come on, V. Lean on me and I'll lean on you.
Vanessa: Ow, I have shooting pain going up my leg. Ugh!

Learning Points

The Second Conditional - Talking About Hypothetical Situations

You use the second conditional to talk about unreal or imaginary (hypothetical) situations in the future.

For example:

If I had a million dollars, I would buy a car.

Do you have a million dollars? No.

Is it possible to suddenly get a million dollars? Not really.

What would you do if you had a million dollars? Buy a car.

You use the Simple Past verb + would

| IF | Conditional          | Result                          |
|----|----------------------|---------------------------------|
|    | simple past          | would + base verb               |
| If | I married Peter,     | I would be happy.               |
| If | it snowed next July, | I would be very surprised.      |
| If | I were you,          | I would be jumping up and down. |

Remember to use a comma (,) after the IF clause.

In conversation, it is common to use contractions. (I would = I'd).

Examples:

- If I were you, I'd be jumping up and down.
- I'd get that checked out if I were you.
- If we went home, we'd need to have some movies to watch.

Learning Points

Giving Advice

You use modals to give advice.

The most common modals for giving advice are:
should, ought to and had better.

You can think of modals as “helping verbs”. They add meaning to the main verb of a sentence. In this case, these modals add the meaning of advice.

Should is the most common modal used to give advice.
Ought to and had better are used for giving strong advice.

| Subject | Modal      | Main Verb |                 |
|---------|------------|-----------|-----------------|
| You     | should     | get       | moving.         |
| We      | ought to   | go        | home and relax. |
| You     | had better | sit       | down.           |

- In conversation, it is common to use contractions with had better.

You'd better sit down and relax.
