Let's Start!

It's your turn! Time for some friendly competition.

Learning Outcome

Use expressions about relationships and feelings in a range of social and work contexts.

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about social activities.
- I can talk about recent actions and routines.
- I can use words like since, for to describe duration.

Ask your partner:

- What do you like to do with your friends?
- Have you been out this week?
- Where did you go?
- How long have you been friends with your best friend?

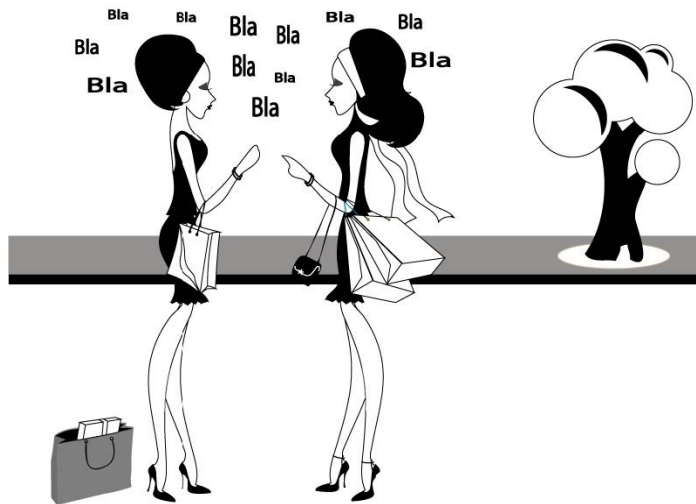

Let's Explore!

Sally and Vanessa talk about what they have been doing lately. Who is up?

* If you are "up", it means it is your turn.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Sally: Ok, you're up, V.
- Vanessa: Oh, I forgot how heavy these bowling balls were!
- Sally: I haven't been here in a while!
- Vanessa: Yeah, it's been ages. I've totally forgotten how to bowl.
- Sally: So, my personal trainer has been making me do these workouts every morning. My muscles get so sore.
- Vanessa: Have you been losing weight?
- Sally: Not, really ... I've been gaining muscle mass. That's good, right?
- Vanessa: Absolutely! I've been going to a specialized cooking class once a week for the last few months.
- Sally: Oh, really? What's so specialized about it?
- Vanessa: Well, the trend of "clean eating" is something for me to consider. I've been thinking about adding new items to the menu at the restaurant. I want to tap into this new market.
- Sally: That's a great idea! Very savvy! Since you started as the manager, you've become attuned to the business side of the restaurant industry. I'm impressed.
- Vanessa: Oh, thanks. Now, let me impress you with my bowling skills. Be prepared to be amazed!
- Sally: If you beat me, I'll take you to the movies!
- Vanessa: It's a deal!

Let's Practice!

Learning Points

Present Perfect Continuous vs Present Perfect

The Present Perfect tense and the Present Perfect Continuous tense each have their own uses. You use both to talk about a past action or an action that began in the past that is connected to the present in some way.

Look at the chart for an outline of the two tenses:

Tense	Structure	Meaning/Use	Example
Present Perfect	subject + has/have + past participle	to talk about experience	Since you started as the manager, you've become attuned to the business side of the restaurant industry.
Present Perfect Continuous	subject + has/have + been v-ing	to describe: a single activity that lasts a long time OR an action that is repeated over a long period of time when a long activity has just stopped	I've been going to specialized cooking classes for two weeks.

To emphasize the action, use the continuous form.

- They've been studying hard.

To emphasize the result of the action, use the simple form.

- I've won many cooking awards.

- You use FOR to talk about how long an action has been happening (a week, 2 days, five hours, two weeks, etc.).
- You use SINCE to talk about when the action started (2010, Tuesday, I started

Examples:

- I've been going to specialized cooking classes for two weeks.
- Since you started as the manager, you've become attuned to the business side of the restaurant industry.
- Have you been losing weight?
- I haven't been bowling in ages!

Learning Points

Talking About Social Activities

When you talk about social activities, you often use the -ing form of a verb.

You can use the -ing form as verbs, adjectives and nouns. When you talk about activities, you can use the -ing form (gerund).

You form the gerund by adding ing to the end of a verb.

Verb	Gerund	Example
ski	skiing	In Canada, many people go skiing on the weekends in the winter.
bowl	bowling	I have never been bowling.
camp	camping	Camping is a great way to hang out with friends and get in touch with nature.
watch	watching	I like watching TV.
bake	baking	I love to do some baking with my sister.

Examples:

- I haven't been bowling in ages!
- I love watching bowling!
